Hello, many hellos and loud salutations! Now, I bet you're thinking, "Hey, why is the logo different than usual?". Well, what time is it? One simple word. Feb. U. Ary. Valentines! I bet you can notice Rhodette. "Why is her strap pink, and why is her hat red?" Same answer, still proud of it. I bet you already know the drill here, if you didn't catch the first edition, I think you should go read it, just in case you don't know what's going on. We are adding something new, and that is the Valentines activity! You can't see it yet! Yay! Also, all the interviewed here are all happy about the new holiday here. Anywho, I think it might as well be time to dive in with tons of Valentines cards into the Big Story of the month, and here it is!

Ways To Be Kind

Around this time of year there are many, many ways to be kind to others. Especially since the stores are stocked up with all this stuff to celebrate Valentines. If you want, here's a few things to give to your Valentine if you have ZERO idea of what you do give them.

Chocolate (duh!)

Chocolate is one of the most store-bought items around this time. Everytime you see someone propose love to someone else, what do they give each other? CHOCOLATE. Not always. It's usually a ring. 😐 Anyway, chocolate is made from, believe it or not, fruit. Yeah. Cacao beans, to be specific. Before it can become chocolate, you have to open them and take out the beans. After, you have to ferment the beans with yeast. After that, you have to dry them, roast them for 30-50 minutes at 130 degrees fahrenheit, winnow it, grind it, sterilize it for 20 minutes at 93 degrees fahrenheit, mill it, conch it for 24-72 hours at 80 degrees fahrenheit, and out comes the chocolate.

A card

You can do better than that!
BOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOO!
Nobody EVER gets a card for ANYONE on Valentines. EVER.
If someone gives that to you, tell them that they owe you.
BOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOO!
Ooh!
Lte's move on, to the nxet story
of your program.

Space Croissant III

This is a model of Space Croissant III. The real one is in Minecraft. That model from Minecraft is. This model is one inch tall. I found it on the field outside during lunch recess. It used to be a croissant eraser. It smells like a croissant, too. So that’s why I made some customizations to it, and BOOM! It’s now the Space Croissant III. I use it while playing with my little siblings. It’s got 2 lasers on the front. The other black dots are for design. If you would like to see the larger model in Minecraft, join me on some Friday around and can show you inside the model.

And now, The Super Mario Interview!

Mario: Hello! Itza mee, Mario!

Thank you for the introduction, but we all know who YOU ARE!

More to the point, you must answer my questions.

O-kay.

Q: How many games did you star in?

A: About 200.

Q: What do you eat?

Wait. (booyah, booyah, booyah) My pizza! Wansum?

Sure, I haven't eaten in 41 days, cus of traveling.

Ok, I'll put that down as...

- 200
- Hawaiían style pizza

Q: How do you survive all these adventures?

A: All those mushrooms. Especially the green ones. Bleh!

Now, if you'll excuse me, I have an appointment with the princess of the Mushroom Kingdom. Blehleh!

Okay. Seeya.

Knock, Knock.

Who's there?

Interrupting physicist.

Le Valentines Activity That You Can Do At Home

Ok, here's that activity I was talking about at the beginning of the paper. Here's a few things to do for your BEE-loved family member.

Bake Sweets

Bake cookies for your family. You can do cake or cookie decorating, or even make cream puffs! I love cream puffs. Baking is more fun with two, and then everyone gets to enjoy it!

Do A Scavenger Hunt

A scavenger hunt is one of the best ways to have fun around now is to have a scavenger hunt! I know eggs are only for Easter, but it's still fun. Jejejeje (my little sister recommended this.)

Booyah, booyah, booyah

Would you rather...

Lose all the money you earned last year or lose all the memories you gained last year?

The Living Sushi Channel

I bet you already know what we do here. This month's food is...

Ramen

- It was once a "luxury grocery store item".
- China eats more instant ramen than any other country!
- A Japanese borrowing of the word "lamien", meaning "pulled noodles".

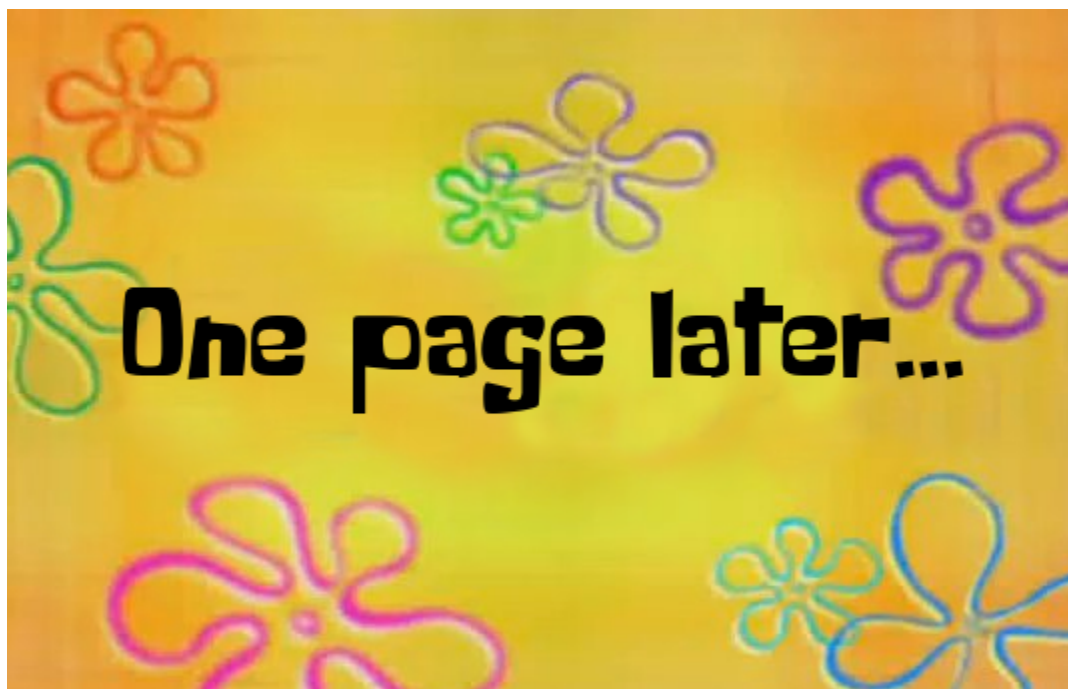

Thank you for listening to...
The Living Sushi Channel.

Squilliam's House

This is a description on Squilliam Fancyson's house in Bikini Bottom. The exterior is a base that looks like an Easter Island head, but with another one on top, ending with a tiny balcony and a flag with Squilliam's head on it. The house also has a rooftop garden with a berry mineral soda consisting of blueberries, blackberries, cranberries, strawberries, and raspberries. When I said "berry", I meant BERRY. It also has a 150-foot long sculpture of Squilliam's unibrow made entirely out of gilded doorknobs. In the front hall, there's a BUNCH of paintings with giant marble columns. Across that hall, there's a gilded doorknob attached to the wall, but it's entirely functionless. The BATHROOM is even really fancy, too, with a golden toilet and a jewel-encrusted toilet paper holder. On that same floor, there's an elevator leading to the next level. The hall that leads to the elevator is decorated with marble sculptures of Squilliam, paintings, and even MORE columns. The floors are G, 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, Not Quite, Almost Roof, and The Roof. When the elevator begins going up, gold fish heads spout out warm water, making it a hot tub. The roof has a garden, and in the garden, there's exotic flowers, sculpture of Squilliam's head which has a nose as a phone. I describe it as huge and lifelike. The elevator can go to the roof even if the roof is small and has a flag. The roof opens up, revealing the garden.

A warm thank you to all who read this! Tune in next month for the next edition of The Rhodes GazZette!

No, you ain't!
