

Hello! How is everyone doing? Good? Good. Just like with last edition, which, if you haven't read, I recommend you to read, (gasp), there's an activity based on the season! Alright, any questions?! NO??!! GOOD LET'S START!!

Ladybug

The ladybug is lucky because they are essential in farming to kill any pests. They are also good luck for marriage.

Four Leaf Clover

This lucky charm is lucky because of how rare they are. Apparently, only 1/10,000 clovers have four leaves.

Horseshoe

They're lucky because they're made of iron, which was believed to ward off evil spirits.

Rabbit's Foot

At first, the Celts considered the FULL rabbit lucky, and since they lived underground, they were believed to be communicating with the spirits of the nether. Eventually after, a rabbit's foot had rules in order to be lucky.

1. It has to be the LEFT HIND FOOT.
2. The rabbit has to be killed or captured in a cemetery.
3. The rabbit's foot has to be cut off on a Friday
4. The meaner the person, the luckier the foot.

Whenever I think of this, if I had won the lottery or something with a rabbit's foot, I wouldn't have been able to enjoy it, because I see this as a little cruel. Luckily, this bunny cruelty doesn't have to be done anymore, because nowadays, the rabbit feet are made of latex and fake fur.

Stay away from me lucky charms!
