

Persuasion Map

To persuade means to make someone come around to your point of view. To do that, you need to build an argument and support it with details. Here's how to map it all out.

1. Choose a topic and your position for or against it.
2. Provide three reasons that support your position.
3. Below each reason write two facts that support it.

Topic: Muggle-born children should continue to be allowed to attend Hogwarts.

Reason:

Have been going to Hogwarts for a long time

Supporting Details:

3 of 4 Hogwarts founders OK with Muggle-born

Supporting Details:

Only Slytherin was against it

Reason:

Very talented examples of Muggle-born

Supporting Details:

Hermione

Supporting Details:

Harry Potter's mom

Reason:

Many myths about Muggle-born

Supporting Details:

Ministry of Magic trying to clear up myths

Supporting Details:

Muggle-born have just as much ability as pure-bloods

Persuasion Map

To persuade means to make someone come around to your point of view. To do that, you need to build an argument and support it with details. Here's how to map it all out.

1. Choose a topic and your position for or against it.
2. Provide three reasons that support your position.
3. Below each reason write two facts that support it.

Topic:

Reason:

Reason:

Reason:

Supporting Details:

Supporting Details:

Supporting Details:

Supporting Details:

Supporting Details:

Supporting Details: