Homework Scoring Guide

All problems and instructions are included; work is complete, logically ordered, and legible. All problems are attempted. Answers are complete thoughts, not fragments, not simply numbers.

Some instructions or steps may be missing. Work is complete and all problems are done. Answers are incomplete thoughts, without context.

Most problems show work. Work is complete. A few problems may not attempted. Work mostly shows the thought progression.

Work is incomplete or not shown. Work does not show a progression of ideas. All problems are done. Problems aren’t sufficiently copied.

Less work is shown. Problems are missing.

Little work is shown. Answers are given.

At this point you probably won’t turn homework in anyways; you will most likely not get a grade other than incomplete.