Character List

John Proctor: A local farmer who lives just outside town; Elizabeth Proctor's husband. A stern, harsh-tongued man, John hates hypocrisy. Nevertheless, he has a hidden sin—his affair....

Abigail Williams: Reverend Parris's niece. Abigail was once the servant for the Proctor household, but Elizabeth Proctor fired her after she discovered that Abigail's sinful ways. Abigail is smart, wily, a good liar, and vindictive when crossed.

Reverend John Hale: A young minister reputed to be an expert on witchcraft. Reverend Hale is called in to Salem to examine Parris's daughter, Betty. Hale is a committed Christian and hater of witchcraft. His critical mind and intelligence save him from falling into blind fervor.

Elizabeth Proctor: John Proctor's wife. Elizabeth fired Abigail when she discovered her sinful ways. Elizabeth is supremely virtuous, but often cold.

Reverend Parris: The minister of Salem's church. Reverend Parris is a paranoid, power-hungry, yet oddly self-pitying figure. Many of the townsfolk, especially John Proctor, dislike him, and Parris is very concerned with building his position in the community.

Rebecca Nurse: Francis Nurse's wife. Rebecca is a wise, sensible, and upright woman, held in tremendous regard by most of the Salem community.

Francis Nurse: A wealthy, influential man in Salem. Nurse is well respected by most people in Salem, but is an enemy of Thomas Putnam and his wife.

Judge Danforth: The Deputy Governor of Massachusetts and the presiding judge at the witch trials. Honest and scrupulous, at least in his own mind, Danforth is convinced that he is doing right in rooting out witchcraft.

Giles Corey: An elderly but feisty farmer in Salem, famous for his tendency to file lawsuits. Giles's wife, Martha, is later accused of witchcraft.

Thomas Putnam: A wealthy, influential citizen of Salem, Putnam holds a grudge against Francis Nurse for preventing Putnam's brother-in-law from being elected to the office of minister. He uses the witch trials to increase his own wealth by accusing people of witchcraft and then buying up their land.

Ann Putnam: Thomas Putnam's wife. Ann Putnam has given birth to eight children, but only Ruth Putnam survived. The other seven died before they were a day old, and Ann is convinced that they were murdered by supernatural means.

Ruth Putnam: The Putnams' lone surviving child out of eight. Like Betty Parris, Ruth falls into a strange stupor after Reverend Parris catches her and the other girls dancing in the woods at night.

Tituba: Reverend Parris's black slave from Barbados. Tituba agrees to perform voodoo at Abigail's request.

Mary Warren: The servant in John Proctor's household and a member of Abigail's group of girls. She is a timid girl, easily influenced by those around her.

Betty Parris: Reverend Parris's ten-year-old daughter. Betty falls into a strange stupor after Parris catches her and the other girls dancing in the forest with Tituba. Her illness and that of Ruth Putnam fuel the first rumors of witchcraft.

Martha Corey: Giles Corey's third wife. Martha's reading habits lead to her arrest and conviction for witchcraft.

Ezekiel Cheever: A man from Salem who acts as clerk of the court during the witch trials. He is upright and determined to do his duty for justice.

Judge Hathorne: A judge who presides, along with Danforth, over the witch trials.

Herrick: The marshal of Salem.

Mercy Lewis: The servant in Thomas Putnam's household. Mercy belongs to Abigail's group of girls.
